This plan covers the Old Testament and the New Testament separately. One may read either through the year, or read the whole Bible through the year, getting some OT and a NT chapter for each day. The NT pace allows Saturdays and Sundays off

Each section seeks to follow in order of time that events occurred. You may be reading a book of history, then jump to a prophet or two. That is because the time when the prophecies were expressed was at that point in the history

A break in the pace of reading is done by reading Psalms on Sundays

Christmas Eve and Christmas Day have Christmas story scriptures. Psalm 8 is the Psalm it is said that the astronauts read back from the first orbit of the Moon on Christmas Eve, 1968

In 2008, there are 366 days in the year, owing to the fact of it's a leap year. The month of February has an added day, the 29th. However, there still are only 52 Saturdays and 52 Sundays

This Schedule is compiled and maintained annually by:
